

 MAKIA MEN

FALL 2012 - WINTER 2013

For this season we divided the line in to 3 different themes. Each group representing it's own direction in style as well as in detailing. These hands on jobs that were more like lifelong commitments, representing similar values that we like to stand behind and cherish ourselves. You'll recognize each group from it's own label.

Part of being a young, privately run clothing company, is that you can react quickly to the challenges thrown in front of you.
To define a meaning to the phrase, our catalogue plans were so up in the air that we decided to flip a coin and head up North. All the way up to Alaska, the Last Frontier. A land originally purchased for less than 2 cents an acre, a land that holds some of the most majestic landscapes and rugged conditions that the world has to offer.

After the initial awe of the sheer magnitude of our surroundings, we quickly came to realize that this vast and raw corner of the earth kept inside some of the most interesting and hospitable people that we've come across. True renaissance men who live their lives on their own terms in a place mostly forgotten by the rest of the modern society.

A perfect place for us to venture into.

True charm of the unexpected, Alaska.

THE DOWN PARKA

Made to endure the harsh climate that we've had to endure our whole lives. Ice, snow and sideways rain.
This jacket is the crème de la crème for those days when the thermometer drops below freezing level.

ATTACKED BY BEARS.

MAKIA DENIM

Made out of 100% cotton denim. These pants are our testament to hard manual labor and to the work wear that denim used to be before all the spandex that you'll run into nowadays. A little rough around the edges, yet detailed and fitted for your comfort. Makia jeans come in three different fits to satisfy your personal preferences.

Slim, Tapered and the Dropped Crotch.

The Calypso Cap

Inspired by the groundbreaking work and travels of Monsieur Cousteau, this is our version of the timeless classic seaman's cap. Made out of ecological 100% Bluesign® wool, this Makia & Villa Wool collaboration represents values that we both strive for in our products. Quality craftsmanship, timeless designs and products that show the middle finger to today's throwawayism.
